

Mother Wound

Dust devils on fallowed Colorado River Indian Tribes farmland near the Colorado River in west Arizona.

Photographs commissioned and published by: High Country News, Mother Jones, ProPublica & The Water Desk. Aerial support from: Lighthawk & EcoFlight.

further define the term "Craft," by modernizing the definition week, and are free of charge. for handmade creativity.

photographic practice which aims to bring visibility to Native American and underserved communities. His projects explore Hand: Mother Wound features aerial photographs from local the ways in which identity, place, and history illuminate the aftermath of manifest destiny. About Craft Lake City: Founded in 2009 by Angela H. Brown, About Celebration of the Hand: Craft Lake City curates this Craft Lake City® is a 501(c)(3) charitable organization with the adjacent to the sidewalks in downtown Salt Lake City mission to educate, promote and inspire local artisans while (located on the north and south sides of Broadway, 300 South, elevating the creative culture of the Utah arts community between 200 West and 200 East). Celebration of the Hand through science, technology and art. Craft Lake City strives to installations are open to the public 24 hours a day 7 days a

About the Artist: Russel Albert Daniels is an artist and photographer based out of Salt Lake City. His work stands in the cross current of art, reportage and re-indigenization. His craft places storytelling at the forefront of a rich

